March	< APRICA AROUND> App	Brand Identity Branding & UI/UX Design Project	This project was specifically designed for the town of Aprica. To avoid the awkward situation of tourists arriving at their destination only to find themselves completely unaware of what's happening there—especially the frustration of discovering that a great event has already ended—we developed a handy app that allows anyone to know everything that's going on in Aprica in minutes. The project encompassed everything from logo design, app functionality, and interface design to poster distribution and social media post planning.	Creative development and Visual Designer (Team leader)	* Designed the visual identity and 5A concept logo for the project. * Developed the full mobile application interface design, including user flow and visual consistency. * Created promotional posters and presentation materials for the final pitch. * Combined branding and interface design to build a cohesive user experience system.

April	<Madam, in Eden, I'm Adam>	Graphic Design & Digital Layout Visual Storytelling / Photography Project	The project, titled "Madam, in Eden, I'm Adam," draws inspiration from the story of Adam and Eve. A hidden trick is that the meaning reads the same forwards and backwards, symbolizing an endless cycle, a concept that repeats itself throughout history. Through the detailed depiction of hands and subtle changes in gestures, the project aims to evoke further associations in viewers and connect them to the still prevalent gender inequality in contemporary society.	Creative development	* Developed the visual narrative and storyboard for the photography series. * Directed and executed the photoshoot process, including scene composition and subject coordination. * Participated as the photographic subject to reinforce the conceptual narrative of the project. * Edited and color-graded the final images through adjustments in saturation, contrast, and tonal balance to ensure visual consistency.
April	ScentSync	Marketing & Economics	To help alleviate the predicament of many fitness enthusiasts who struggle to resist the temptation of high-calorie comfort foods (such as pizza, desserts, and fried foods), leading to the failure of their diet plans, I developed an innovative product poised to revolutionize the food delivery industry – ScentSync. This revolutionary virtual food delivery system utilizes digitized scents and sensory stimulation to create a zero-calorie, zero-waste dining experience. It requires no actual food intake, is environmentally friendly, and supports a sustainable lifestyle.	Individual Project so everything was made by myself	By understanding the current social situation and market demands, based on continuous innovation in the technological field, and projecting the market environment in 2040, this innovative new product and experience was developed through analysis of social and technological trends. The target audience was segmented into Customers & Segments, and specific personas were created to better establish an emotional connection between the developed product and the target audience, while simultaneously selecting the optimal sales and communication channels. Competitive analysis was conducted to gain a deep understanding of the positioning, pricing, and communication information of other brands in the same industry, enabling differentiated positioning and pricing. Based on the current market segmentation, trend forecasts were made, combined with projected consumer reach, pricing, and average spending, to establish financial assumptions, including profit and loss statements and break-even points. May	MERCURY MARINE	Project Methodology Of Visual Communication Campaign Visual Design Project	This project aims to create official advertising campaigns for two upcoming outboard motors from the MERCURY MARINE brand—the VERADO V12 and AVATOR—and to plan online and offline marketing activities (with a timeline including the international boat show in Genoa in September) to support the promotion of these two products in the Italian market.	Visual Designer	* Participated in creative concept development for the campaign. * Designed key visual assets including posters, motion graphics, and dynamic visual content. * Developed visual materials across multiple media formats to strengthen campaign communication.
June	Kindle	Advertising Advertising & Graphic Design Project	Design a print advertising campaign for Amazon's Kindle e-reader. Find a truly valuable insight and creative idea for Kindle, extract eye-catching visual elements, and use simple, clear visual expression to provoke thought in the audience.	Individual Project so everything was made by myself	* Independently developed the creative concept and visual direction for the advertising campaign. * Designed print advertisements and advertising copywriting for the project. * Incorporated readymade-inspired visual strategies to create conceptual and engaging campaign outcomes. * Explored the relationship between product narrative and visual communication.
June	Detalk App	Interface Design Branding & Social Media Design	As individuals experiencing what is known as "expatism," both personal experiences and survey data reveal the same conclusion—millions of expats worldwide face mental health challenges, yet finding psychological counseling services in a foreign country often proves difficult. Therefore, we decided to develop the DeTalk app, born from our collective struggles and driven by a singular mission: to provide online psychotherapy tailored to expats, with therapists who share similar cultural backgrounds.	Visual Designer	* Designed the logo identity for an online mental health consultation platform targeting international communities. * Created social media communication materials and promotional visual assets. * Developed a visual language focused on accessibility, emotional warmth, and digital communication.
October	<Digging back to school> Staedtler	Digital Marketing & Social Media Strategy	This project requires proposing recommendations to improve Staedtler's social media communication positioning and strategy based on an analysis and comparison of Staedtler Italy's social media strategies with those of its main competitors; and planning the Back to School Compagin event in September of that year, while also developing a social media communication strategy.	Creative development and Visual Designer	The work focuses on the creative development of the BACK TO SCHOOL COMPAGIN, the creation of the slogan, and the visual design and presentation. The principle of the event is to maintain Staedtler's brand tone and historical heritage while bridging the psychological and emotional distance with younger audiences and enhancing their sense of participation.

February	Deear, Magazine	Art Direction Editorial & Publication Design	This project aims to explore this contemporary and ongoing issue of immigration in the 21st century, delving into the political, social, and psychological problems hidden behind immigration. It stumbled upon a little-known and rarely reported specific topic—queer immigration. The project explores this theme through a magazine similar to a personal diary, a medium through which we express profound and private emotions. We hope to showcase the experiences of the queer community as they migrate in search of a better community by having them write their own "diaries," expressing their thoughts and feelings.	Visual Designer	* Worked as a visual designer for the magazine project, contributing to editorial layout and visual system development. * Designed multiple page layouts and handled visual asset processing across the publication. * Assisted in building visual consistency through typography, image treatment, and page composition. * Collaborated within a multidisciplinary team in a highly flexible production environment.

March	Machine Vision The Infinite Discussion	Editorial Systems For Art Speculative Media / Exhibition / AI Communication	Through this project we put 2 machines into a state of infinite discussion, two speakers VOX and MACHINA are arguing on the topic of the importance of the Visual and personal (human) approach. Both of them are tasked to never agree with each other and constantly find a new way to try to reject the opinions of others. By doing this, we've put them into a state of a very human-like ideological conflict and opened us the possibility to see their interpretation of ourselves thought this argument.. The way the AI will handle such an illogical human situation, what types of approaches it will take to persuade the unpersuadable partner, and how it will handle ridiculous answers will show us our true digital reflection.	Creative development and Visual Designer (Team leader)	* Initiated and developed the original conceptual framework for the exhibition project. * Produced video content and generated conversational narratives used within the exhibition environment. * Explored the relationship between machine vision, dialogue systems, and speculative human-machine communication. * Combined moving image, narrative construction, and visual storytelling into an immersive exhibition experience.
May	<Surprise Sip : Mixology Experience> Lavazza	Rebranding – Branded Entertainment	Develop a comprehensive proposal to conduct a competitive analysis of decaffeinated coffee and related categories (non-alcoholic, zero sugar), consider competitor activities, assess the best timing for communication, and create a communication campaign focused on "increasing awareness and enhancing purchase intention."	Creative development and Visual Designer	Focus primarily on creative concept development, timeline planning, social media campaign strategy development, and collaboration planning with online influencers. Visualize creative ideas, designing the main visual for the campaign, social media promotional materials, event landing pages, and special menus.

January	TYRANNO	Speculative Communication System Design	Tyranno, an imaginative visual language created to facilitate interaction between people and Tyrannosaurus rex in a future where cloning might resurrect the species. I propose a communication method that bypasses speech, which dinosaurs cannot process, in favour of symbolic typography based on semiotic theory. By studying ancient hieroglyphics and oracle bone scripts, the project translates dinosaur physicalities and movements into a structured, intuitive font system. This speculative design aims to bridge the profound cognitive gap between humans and prehistoric creatures to ensure safe coexistence.	Individual Project so everything was made by myself	Developed a future-oriented communication system exploring interactions between humans and Tyrannosaurus Rex within a speculative urban context. The project combined semiotics, experimental typography, narrative world-building, and interaction design to construct a visual language system for cross-species communication.	· Typography Systems · Symbolic Communication Structures · Interactive Storytelling · Digital Experience Design
